JOINT RESOLUTION

Relative to the Pittsburg and Steubenville Railroad Company.

WHEREAS, This legislature has learned that an application has been made to the legislature of the state of Virginia, by the Pittsburg and Steubenville railroad company, for authority to construct a portion of their road through the territory of that commonwealth; therefore,

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That regarding this enterprise as likely to prove greatly advantageous to both commonwealths, and as especially necessary, in the present state of the republic, adding another bond of friendship between two states already closely drawn together by a common interest and a common danger, and as eminently calculated to promote still closer relations between the loyal states of the Union, we do express the hope, that the assent, by the state of Virginia, will not be withheld from a measure, which, by increasing the facilities of trade and travel, cannot fail to greatly strengthen the hands of the national government, in its present struggle against the enemies of the republic, and promote the good feeling already existing between the loyal citizens of the two commonwealths.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Instructing our Senators and Representatives in Congress to procure the passage of an act relative to the payment of Volunteers.

WHEREAS, By a general order of the war department, at Washington, volunteers in the service of the United States are entitled to pay from the time of their enlistment into service :

And whereas, Some of the volunteer regiments of Pennsylvania have only received pay from the time they were mustered into the service of the United States, whilst others have received their full pay, under the order of the war department, from the time of their enlistment :

And whereas, Some of the officers have received pay from the dates of their commissions, and a large majority of them, only from the dates at which they were mustered into service :

And whereas, It is just that the officers and men should all receive pay from the time, at which they separate themselves from their business pursuits and devote themselves to the service of their country, a period involving much labor and great expense to the officers; therefore,

Resolved, That our senators in congress are hereby instructed, and our representatives are requested, to immediately procure the passage of an act by congress, providing for the payment of volunteers from the time of their enlistment, and of officers from the time at which, by order of the governor, they were or may be hereafter placed on recruiting service; and further, to make sufficient provision for the payment of expenses incurred in recruiting companies and regiments for the volunteer army of the United States, in all those cases where the companies or regiments have been or may be hereafter mustered into the service of the United States, and also in cases where officers, under proper authority, have raised companies or regiments, or parts of companies or regiments, of the command of which they have been deprived by military necessities beyond their control: Provided, Such officers shall, themselves, have entered the service of the United States in some military capacity in the line.

SECTION 2. That, looking to the dangers, by which our harbor was so recently threatened, in our seaboard frontier, from the introduction of new and formidable means of maritime offence, it is the opinion of this legislature that the immediate construction of one or more iron-clad gun-boats, or such other means of defence as may be adequate to the occasion, is an essential measure of precaution for the protection of the city of Philadelphia, and all the important region of country bordering upon the Delaware.

SECTION 3.
